STAT Attn:

Gentlemen:

I want to thank you for the courtesies tended the writer on recent trip to Baltimore. Since my return we have experimented somewhat with envelopes ^{to meet your requirements} to meet your requirements and to find something that would serve your purpose, and still could be made by machine.

We are enclosing herewith a dummy of two sizes, the way that we would propose to make them and which can be machine made complete. Before going ahead and making up samples for you, and quoting prices, we would like to have you test out these envelopes and see if they would answer your purpose, or if there are any suggestions might make regarding changes, in the style, size of pocket and so forth. These are hand made dummies and if you find these are suitable for your purpose we will have additional dummies made up, some with Columbian Snap Fastener, some with Clasp Fastener, and some with String & Button. Also, Self Seal, for your experiments. We don't want to do this, however, until we are sure that envelopes made this way would serve your purpose.

These dummies do not show the punching, but show the general style of the envelope we propose to make. If you will examine these and let us know your comments we would appreciate it.

Incidentally, we feel that the weight of paper of these dummies would be suitable for the envelope to be reused and possibly the same style envelope in lighter weight for one time use, without the printing or punching. If you will let us have your comments we will proceed then to make up further dummies and quote approximate prices.

Yours truly,
